I found a job opening looking for someone to write content for a job posting, and I thought I'd give it a try. As a full-time freelance writer, I have access to all the tools I need to work on a project, but I don't have any way to quickly and easily know what skills are needed to write a job posting (content marketing-style). I thought it would be worth asking SO for help with this, so I've decided to ask a question: What skills do you think are required to write a job posting for a website/company? This could include tips for developing a content plan, research, writing, and publishing... A: The first and most important thing to do would be to create a detailed list of the skills you'd need to write an effective job posting. This would include the skills that you would need, and the amount of time that you need to spend on each. This way, you can create a better list when (if) you get a resume and, if you find yourself curious,
