Then a consequence of the Hausdorffness of Y is that Γ is a closed map, i.e. for every $x \in X$ the preimage $\Gamma^{-1}(y)$ is compact. In particular, this means that $\Gamma^{-1}(F)$ is compact for all closed sets F in Y. Now, this makes it clear that Γ sends the complement of the empty set to the empty set, and that it is surjective. I'm now trying to prove that Γ has to be an embedding. Here I'm not really sure how to do this. One way might be to show that for all $x \in X$ and $y \in Y$ the map $\Gamma^{-1}(\Gamma(x)) \to \Gamma^{-1}(\Gamma(y))$ is injective. My problem is that this seems to be very closely related to the topology of Y, i.e. the inverse image of open sets, and so I'm not sure whether Γ necessarily preserves topologies, or even whether this is something that makes sense to even ask. In fact, perhaps the problem stems from the fact that I'm not allowing the function to be surjective (which would be fine). So my question is: Does it make sense to try to prove that Γ

A comparison of medical treatment of hypertension and anticoagulant treatment of venous thromboembolism. To examine the effects of combined anticoagulation and antihypertensive treatment in the prevention of recurrent venous thromboembolism (VTE). We used data from our previously reported randomized controlled trial to assess the incidence of recurrent VTE, bleeding, and death for patients allocated to no anticoagulation (n = 57) or anticoagulation (n = 62) and antihypertensive medication (n = 68). We compared the 90-day risk of recurrent VTE, major bleeding, and death between the groups using cumulative incidence curves and the log-rank test. No difference was observed between patients who were allocated to anticoagulation with and without antihypertensive medications in the incidence of recurrent VTE (cumulative incidence 12.0% and 9.0%, respectively, by 90 days), major bleeding (1.3% and 3.2% by 90 days), or death (1.8% and 3.2% by 90 days) (P = 0.58, P = 0.47, and P = 0.54, respectively). In conclusion, the combination of anticoagulation and antihypertensive treatment is equally effective as anticoagulation and antihypertensive treatment alone in the prevention of recurrent VTE. These results suggest that hypertension should not be a contraindication for anticoagulation, because the risk of recurrent VTE, bleeding, and death in patients with hypertension is no higher than in those without hypertension.Q: How to give the end user of an installed app the ability to uninstall it? I wonder, what is the most common practice to protect users of a fully installed application from it being uninstalled? Right now I'm checking for uninstalling on application start and on exit, and calling an API to confirm. But how to do this? A: On exit, all running processes are included in the proc list to be deleted. When you shutdown or reboot, you should check, if the package was scheduled for uninstall/install. This way you are protected from unauthorized uninstall of apps. Q: gvis not reporting - d0c515b9f4

I'm using CodeIgniter with an MySQL database. I need to integrate this with a random number generator. I tried to read the documentation: But I have problems to get a result. Here is my controller code, if it can help: load->model('pages_model'); $this->load->library('pagination'); $config = Array('base_url' => site_url('pages/index'), 'per_page' => 8, 'uri_segment' => 3); $this->load->config('config', $config); $data['pagination'] = $this->pagination->create_links(); $this->load->view('pages/index',$data); } public function random($str = 'callee') { $this->load->model('pages_model'); $this->load->library('pagination');
